Palrador, the Abandoned Parrot

When everything seems lost, friendship can change the course of a life.

Palrador is a cheerful and curious parrot whose life changes in an instant. Alone and frightened, he meets Snowball, a stray dog who offers him friendship when he needs it most.

Together, they face challenges, discover the true meaning of friendship, and find a place where they can once again feel safe and loved.

A heartwarming children's story about kindness, empathy, animal welfare and the hope of new beginnings.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Marisa Luciana Alves

Marisa Luciana Alves was born in Vinhais, Portugal, in 1976 and has been a teacher since 1999. She has always believed in the power of words to educate, inspire and move young readers.

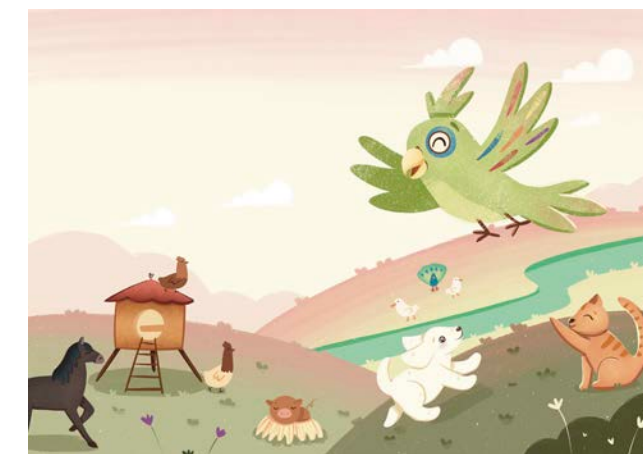

Alongside her teaching career, she has developed a consistent body of work that includes children's literature, short stories and novels. She also leads Creative Writing workshops for young people.

In 2014, she won the "Receitas Secretas" Literary Award, and in 2024 she published her first novel, The Curator (A Curadora), revealing a more intimate side of her writing.

With Palrador, the Abandoned Parrot (2026), she returns to children's literature with a touching story about friendship, compassion and hope.

Reader Profile:

Ideal for young readers who enjoy stories about animals, friendship and adventure. Suitable for family reading, schools and libraries, encouraging empathy, kindness, respect for animals and the importance of helping others.

My Secret Friend

But... don't tell anyone!

What if, all of a sudden, a tiny little creature appeared in your wardrobe... orange and green... with three legs... and antennae on its head?

Who could it be? Of course, it is Centevi, who comes from the magical planet Elvvidi to play and live fun and unforgettable adventures.

But if you find him, you already know... don't tell anyone!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Nathalie Ribas

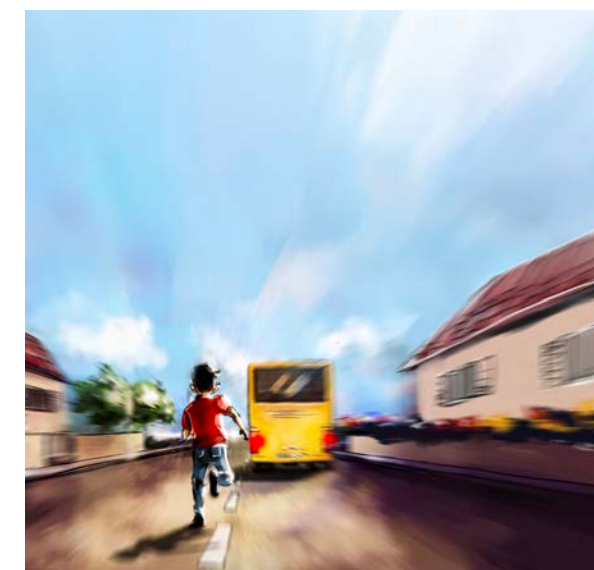

Nathalie Ribas was born in Paris on 27 May 1985. After completing a master's degree in Human Resources, she decided to move to Portugal, her parents' country of origin, for which she has always held deep affection. She currently lives in Carcavelos and is the mother of three boys, who have become her greatest source of inspiration.

Her love of writing emerged at an early age: at the age of 12, she wrote a school composition that left a lasting impression on her teacher — and was never forgotten. Years later, during the pregnancy of her second child, she once again let her imagination take flight and returned to the story she had begun in childhood, guided by creativity and affectionate memory.

The now-completed story remained tucked away for several years until it was shared with her children, by then a little older, who welcomed it with enthusiasm. Their encouragement awakened her desire to bring the story to other children. And so My Secret Friend was born — a book the author considers the great treasure of her life, after her children.

Reader Profile:

A children's reader who enjoys stories about friendship, fantasy and humour. Ideal for family reading or for use in a school context, encouraging imagination and creativity.

The Joke Maniac

Manel loves to play and never gives up trying to convince his father that play has no age limit. With the help of his educator Rita and friends, he creates ingenious plans to create special moments together. A fun and touching story about family time, imagination, and the true value of being present.

Two Houses and a Love Swing

It's no secret that going through a divorce is, most of the time, a difficult and painful process for all parties involved. But worse than dealing with the monster of separation, the anguish of any change, and the sheer sadness one feels, is living in an environment of arguments, the result of a dysfunctional and conflictual relationship that destroys everything around it and can have timeless repercussions on the personalities of children. There is no good story without love, because love has shape and smell and the power to make all things more beautiful and profound. And, believe me, love can come from many places: through two fathers, two mothers, a grandmother or grandfather, a godmother or godfather, just a mother or a father.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Cátia Costa and Guida Guardado

Cátia Costa and Guida Guardado, more than two teachers, more than two writers, more than two passionate about children's literature, are two friends who came together to write and tell stories. Guida writes about emotions, Cátia writes about inclusion and difference. Both teachers by vocation in different areas, but with the same love for what they do. They decided to combine their experiences and emotions with inclusion, to create the book "Maria Mar, what do you feel?". Two writers with the ambition of raising happy children, who can deal with emotions and grow with differences, as each being is important in the world we live in.

Maria Mar, o que sentes?

Maria Mar, what do you feel?

This is a children's book you will want to read! The authors involve us in their delicate words, addressing such an important topic that must be seen and embraced. A story dedicated to all preschool children, but also to all readers sensitive to difference.

As we scroll through its pages, we notice the emotions felt by two children, apparently very different, but are they really that different? Will they feel such different things? Or do we all feel the same and, at the same time, are we all unique?

These and other ideas will awaken, in children and adults, important questions in their worlds, which will lead them to reflect.

A story of different for the same or of the same for different. What matters is accepting each person as they are, and being able to feel all emotions without embarrassment.

ABOUT THE ILLUSTRATOR

Débora Germana

Débora Germana is an illustrator from Recife-PE, Brazil. She was born in 2003 and since she was little she has always been very artistic, she liked to dance, sing and draw. Her parents always involved her in art, whatever it was, but watching Disney cartoons and reading picture books ended up catching her more attention. He spent his adolescence a little far from that, but whenever he could he would draw at his desk at school, or even doodle on his friends. It was during the pandemic, after a gift from her boyfriend that involved colored pencils and a sketchbook that she woke up again and started focusing on the area of illustration. She is currently almost graduated in Graphic Design, and this is her first illustrated book. It is in the area of illustration that we see that enchanting children, teenagers and adults with art is its mission.
